Historic Preservation and Review and Zoning

- Ford's Theatre (HPRB) . Sarah Vonesh with the Architect firm Traceries presented a concept that would open up the front of the existing building at 512 10th St. NW and bring it to street level. They also are proposing the addition to the back to add additional rehearsal space . The first floor would have retail like space and be accessible for disabled guests. Some members of the audience felt it looked nice and that even though the building was historic, it was not of much of a significant structure to the historic landscape. Commissioner Tinpe felt that it shouldn't be changed in such a major fashion and is opposed to the design. Commissioner Wilsey felt that the change was necessary so that persons with disabilities could use the facility easily. The Commission voted 1-1. No action will take place.
- Moxy Hotel (BZA Application)
A representative from Douglas Development explained the proposed change to allow for a meeting space and roof top deck. They were seeking BZA approval. The commission and the public didn't have an objection to the design and it would have little impact on their neighbors at 1010 Mass Ave. They did express some concern about the current lighting but the neighbors decided to take that issue up with the developer. The Commission voted 2-0 to send a letter of support to BZA for the change.
